Introduction

3. We are the Boundary Commission for Scotland, an independent, non-political body whose purpose is to make recommendations for UK Parliament constituencies and Scottish Parliament boundaries in Scotland.
4. We are tasked by the Parliamentary Constituencies Act 1986 to undertake a review of UK Parliament constituencies in Scotland, and we must submit a report containing our recommendations for 52 Scottish constituencies to the Secretary of State for Scotland before 1 October 2013.
5. The legislation will result in a UK Parliament elected from 600 constituencies in place of the current 650, including 52 constituencies in Scotland in place of the current 59.
 - a. The legislation defines 2 constituencies in Scotland: Na h-Eileanan an Iar constituency and Orkney and Shetland constituency.
 - b. The electorate of every other constituency in Scotland must be between 72,810 and 80,473 unless its area exceeds 12,000 square kilometres.
 - c. No constituency may exceed 13,000 square kilometres.
6. This booklet contains our Revised Proposals for these constituencies following the first rounds of consultation, and information on how to participate in our final public consultation from 13 September to 7 November 2012.

This review

7. This review is our sixth periodic review of UK Parliament constituencies in Scotland since we were first established in 1945.
8. We commenced the current review on 4 March 2011. We consulted the public on our Initial Proposals between October 2011 and January 2012, held Public Hearings throughout Scotland in November 2011, and published all comments received for consultation in March 2012. We have now considered all the evidence submitted during these consultations and have produced Revised Proposals for further public consultation. The meeting papers that informed our deliberations and the minutes of our meetings are referenced in Appendix C. Details of how to participate in the consultation are given below. We expect to make our final recommendations for constituencies in 2013.
9. For each constituency, we must recommend its boundaries, its name and its designation as a burgh constituency or a county constituency.
10. For further information on the policies and procedures we have adopted to underpin this review and the legal requirements for constituency design, please refer to our Policies and Procedures booklet, which is available on our website or on request.

Our Revised Proposals

11. We developed our Revised Proposals using electorate data from 1 December 2010. The number of electors registered in each council electoral ward on that date can be found on our website.
12. The methodology we have used to validate our counts of electorate can be found on our website.
13. Our Revised Proposals are summarised in Table 2, which also indicates the nature of any change we have made since the Initial Proposals. Maps of each constituency can be found in Appendix A. The proposed constituencies and their constituent wards in each council area are listed in Appendix B.

Table 2 – Revised Proposal constituencies

* Changes made from Initial Proposals:

U = unchanged; B = boundary changed; N = name changed; BN = boundary and name changed

14. Because of the constraints on constituency design it was not possible to construct all constituencies from complete electoral wards. In our Revised Proposals for the 29 mainland council areas there are 300 whole wards, and 31 wards divided between constituencies: 38 constituencies contain 1 or more part-wards.
15. In our Revised Proposals, 35 of the mainland constituencies are each contained within a single council area, 14 comprise parts of 2 council areas, and 1 comprises parts of 3 council areas.
16. In our Revised Proposals, 24 of the 50 mainland constituencies from our Initial Proposals are unchanged, 8 constituencies from our Initial Proposals have only their name amended, 13 constituencies have only their boundaries amended and 5 constituencies have both amended boundaries and names. Further information on the changes is in Appendix C.

Public consultation on our Revised Proposals

17. The public consultation on our Revised Proposals runs from 13 September 2012 until 7 November 2012. During that period we display our proposals at Display Points, where members of the public can inspect them and find out how to participate in the consultation. There is at least one Display Point in each proposed constituency. Display materials are also available to view on our website.
18. Our proposals are also available on our website. Further copies of this booklet are available on request.
19. The maps at Display Points are larger format than those in this booklet. You can zoom into the maps on our website in order to see the boundaries of the proposed constituencies in more detail.
20. We welcome all comments on our proposals, whether in support or not, to help inform our deliberations. Comments can be made in the following ways:

in writing to: Boundary Commission for Scotland
Thistle House
91 Haymarket Terrace
Edinburgh EH12 5HD

by email to: comments@scottishboundaries.gov.uk

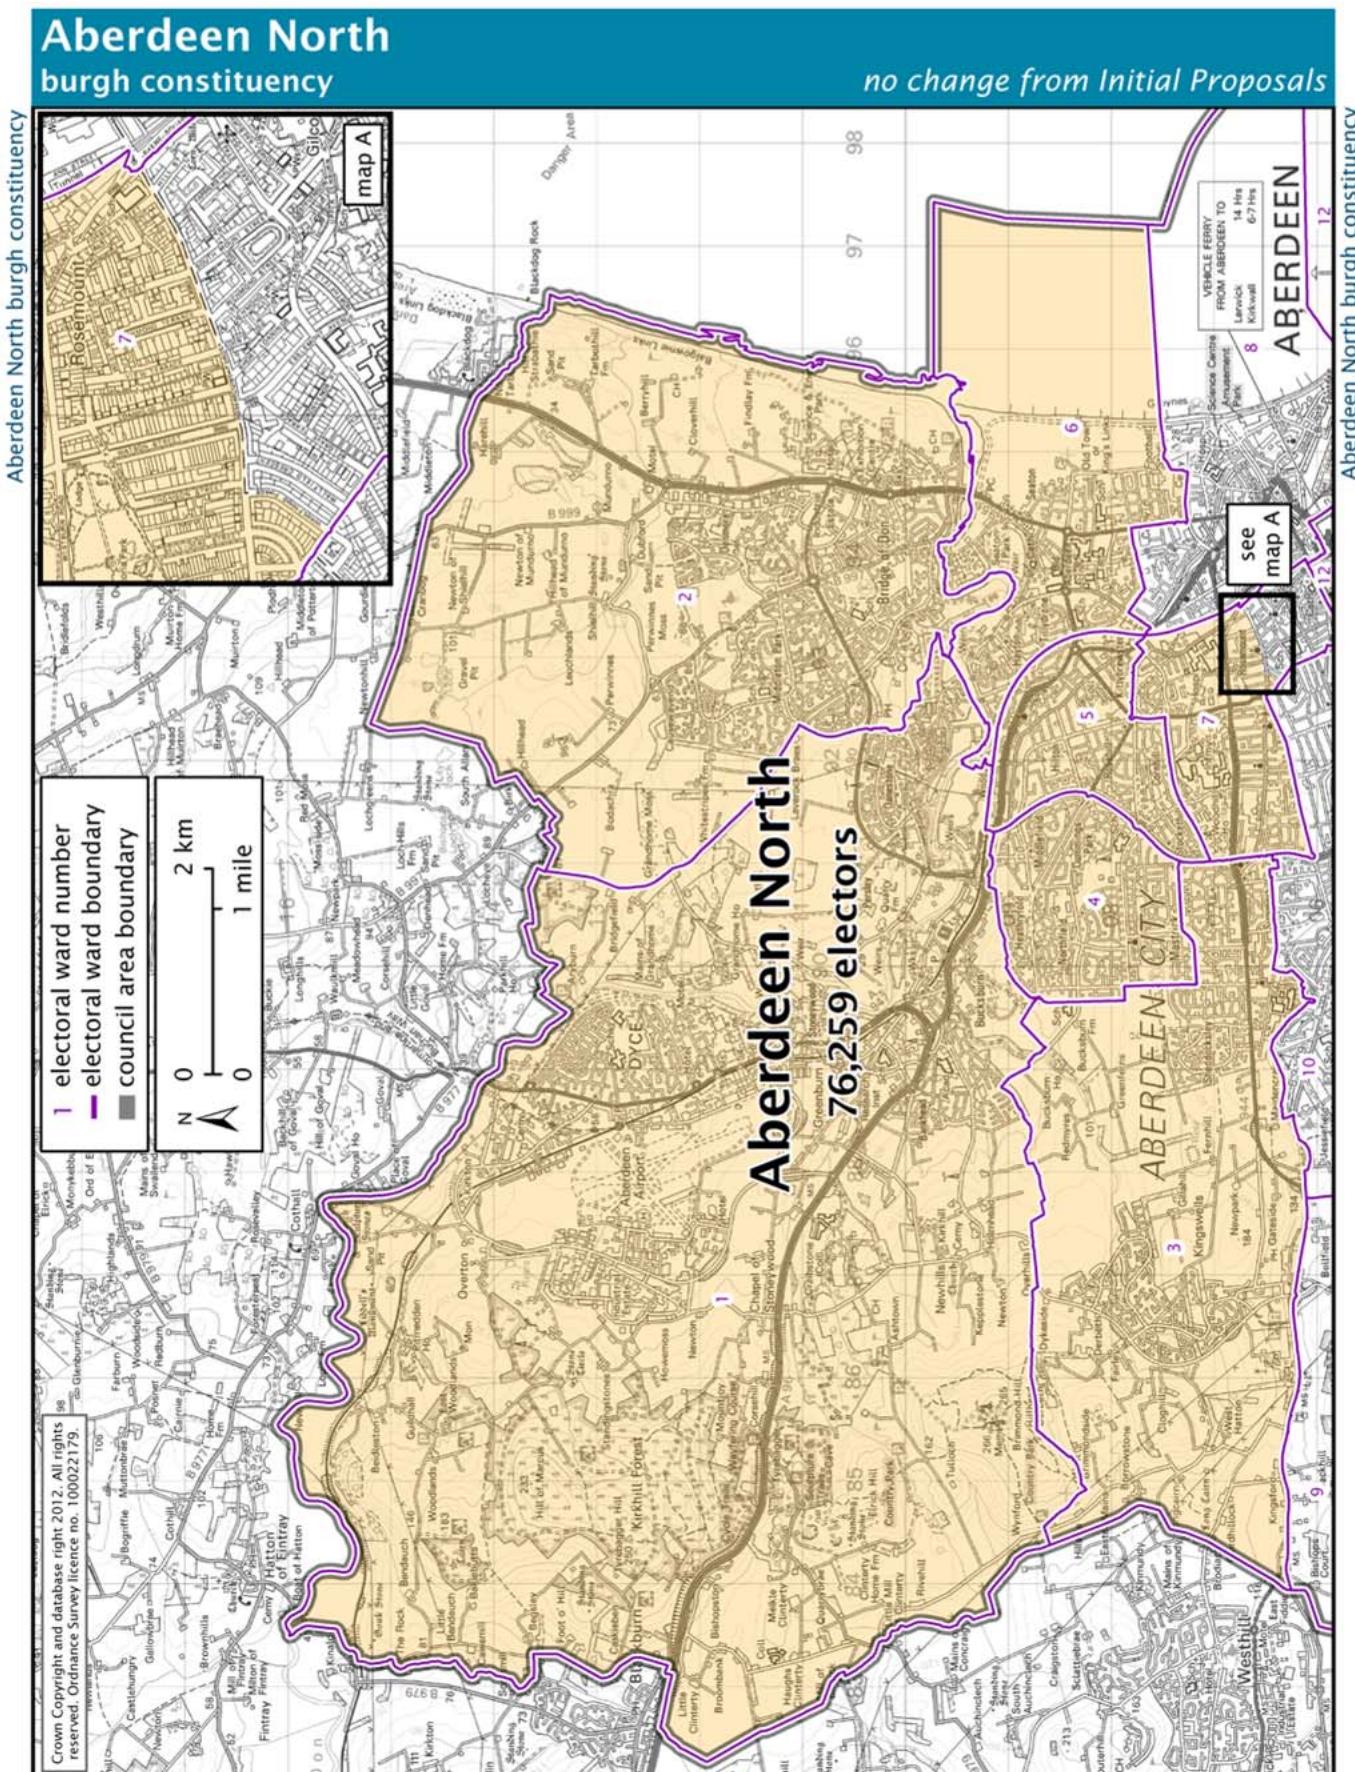

via our website: www.bcomm-scotland.independent.gov.uk

21. All comments we receive in response to this consultation will be available to view on our website in due course. For further information, please visit our website.
22. Where comments contain objections to our proposals, it would be helpful if they were accompanied by an alternative proposal that takes account of statutory requirements and considers the consequences on the wider area. In any event, in our consideration of comments we will be influenced by the quality of argument and the evidence provided.

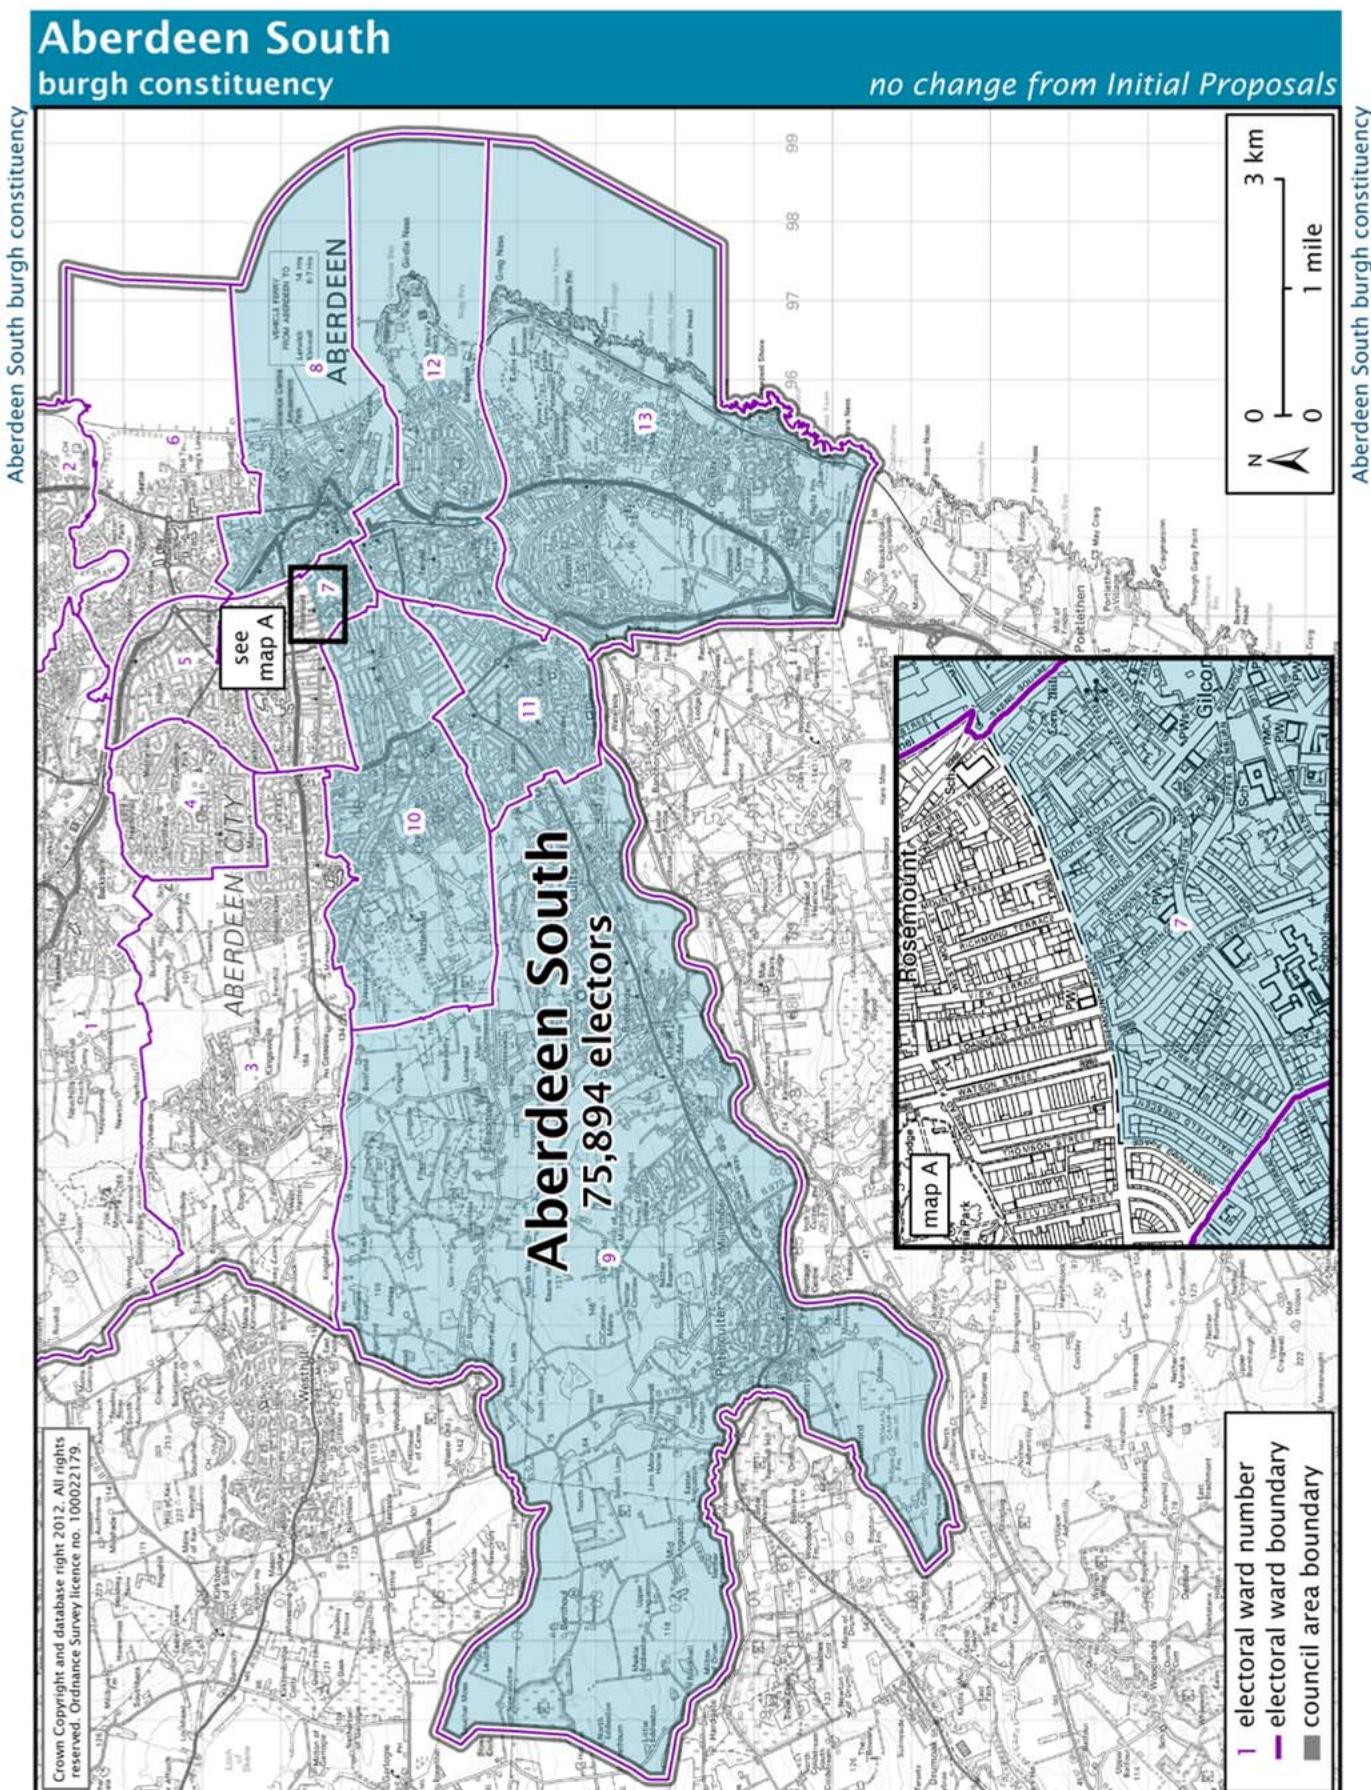

Further stages

23. After the consultation period on our Revised Proposals, we will develop our Final Recommendations which we will submit in our report to the Secretary of State. We expect to submit our report by 30 September 2013.
